Welcome

Professor Carl Lygo

Vice-Chancellor and Chief Executive Officer

On behalf of everyone
here at Arden University, congratulations on your success.

It is a great honour to welcome you and your supporters to Central Hall Westminster to celebrate your success today.

This graduation day is the culmination of many hours, days, and years of hard work and determination from you. It takes a very special kind of person to rise to all the challenges and overcome the obstacles of studying at the highest level. You have proved yourself to be worthy of the highest awards available in UK education. This is your success, so please enjoy every moment of today's celebration. Well done! One of our core values at Arden is to support people in reaching their full potential. We're passionate about making a positive difference in people's lives and I hope, as you sit here today, you feel we have made an impact on yours.

And let's not forget your family and friends who have supported you on your journey, some of whom may be here to celebrate with you today.

With a wealth of opportunity ahead of you, I'm confident that your qualification will help you reach your full potential in absolutely anything you want to do. You now join a select group of people who have the honour of becoming an alumnus of Arden University. You can stay connected with us and watch the further progress of the university through our alumni association. If there is anything the team at Arden University can do to help you further, then please do not hesitate to contact us. You will always be part of the Arden University family.

Professor Carl Lygo

Vice-Chancellor & Chief Executive Officer

Chair's introduction

Professor Ann Tate CBE

Chair of the Board

You have now joined a growing community of Arden University alumni, a community which I hope you will take great pride in being a part of.

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Arden University I would like to welcome you all – graduands, staff, and guests – to today's graduation ceremony, and congratulate all our graduands on their success.

A graduation ceremony is a rite of passage which marks a significant milestone in your life. It celebrates the hard work and dedication you have invested in your programme of study and allows you to feel great pride in your achievements. I hope that you will enjoy your day and remember it for many years to come. You have now joined a growing community of Arden University alumni, a community which I hope you will take great pride in being a part of. I am proud to be associated with Arden University and the values it stands for.

We believe there is no single right path to a university education. Rather, there are many available routes for access, whatever your background or circumstances may be. Where you finish is much more important than where you start, and Arden University is here to support you on your journey.

I hope that today marks the beginning of a new phase in your life and career, and I look forward to hearing about all your successes in the future. But for now, my warmest congratulations to you all.

Professor Ann Tate CBE

Chair of the Board

About Arden University

At Arden, we passionately believe that everyone, everywhere has an equal right to education. We strive to remove the barriers created by location, cost, time, and other life commitments, to give ambitious people like you the opportunity to access the life-changing rewards of a university degree.

Since the granting of our university status in 2015, we've worked hard to do things differently. We recognise that your degree needs to fully prepare you for current and future workplace developments and the expectations of employers, to create a better world for everyone.

With campuses across the UK and Germany, as well as our provision of online degree courses studied by students across five continents, many of whom have travelled to join us here today, we've made it possible for people from all backgrounds to take control of their futures.

As active champions of equality, diversity, and inclusion, we believe that higher education is a force for both social and economic change. We are proud that you have chosen Arden University to be a part of your life journey.

About Central Hall Westminster

The wonderful location in which we are joining each other for today's graduation ceremony is Central Hall Westminster, a Grade II listed building which we hope you'll agree is a fitting location to celebrate your academic achievements.

Originally opened in 1912 as a space for worship, concerts, and public and private events, Central Hall Westminster is one of the capital's most culturally significant venues. Over the years it has welcomed many noteworthy public figures through its doors, including Martin Luther King, Mahatma Gandhi, and King Charles III, and was also the location of the Inaugural Meeting of the United Nations in 1946.

The Great Hall's breathtaking grand organ, which you'll see located behind the stage as you await your graduation moment, features 4,731 pipes; and don't forget to look up – the spectacular self-supporting domed roof above you is the largest of its type in Europe.

We hope that attending your graduation day in such a beautiful setting will create memories that last a lifetime.

Our Academic procession

Your graduation is a celebration of your hard work and achievement and we all look forward to celebrating with you at the Alumni reception

Ceese Kaur Seera

Ceese Kaur Seera is a Sikh woman, fatality investigator, feminist, musician, writer, podcast host, and spoken word performer who uses her voice to raise awareness of topics that are often overlooked or shunned. Ceese is known for her strong opinions and dedication to making a difference in the world.

A passionate advocate for women's rights, equality, and empowerment, Ceese has been a participant in the UN Women UK (CSW69) online campaign for the past two years. She is deeply committed to breaking down barriers for women, particularly in the workplace, and plays an active role in promoting gender equality within policing.

As a member of the policing community, Ceese works for British Transport Police, where she is notably the Chair of the Sikh Police Staff Association, an initiative she founded just six months after joining, having identified a significant gap in representation. Through this platform, she collaborates on initiatives aimed at promoting unity and tackling racism across faith communities. Ceese has set up three forums for ethnic minorities in policing and they still stand today.

She has also pushed boundaries to make changes within the police force since joining in 2007 and having worked for three different forces. Ceese is an ambassador for True Honour, an organisation dedicated to addressing honour-based violence and forced marriages.

Ceese channels her creativity through writing and poetry, often inspired by the impact of social issues on Punjabi communities and the causes she is most passionate about. She often discusses her Sikh identity and heritage, sharing stories and reflections on her experiences. For her, writing is a powerful form of emotional expression and a means of sharing her unique perspective with the world.

Ceese believes strongly in the importance of listening and creating safe spaces for both women and men to share their voices. Her work is rooted in empowering women to make their own choices and lead change, with a special focus on inspiring and educating the next generation.

Taking Arden with you after graduation

We asked some of our students and alumni to reflect on their time at Arden University and tell us about their visions for the future.

Heather

Arden University student,
BSc (Hons) Psychology

Despite my doubts about returning to education, the people at Arden have been incredibly supportive and encouraging. They ignited a spark in me, helping me to see that I could take this new path despite my fears. It's fascinating how encouraging conversations can shift your perspective and help get rid of the loud voices of self-doubt.

The flexibility that Arden offers has been crucial. I'm a mom of two, and balancing family responsibilities with my studies is a constant juggle. The option to attend live lectures or watch them recorded means I can adapt my study schedule around my children's needs.

Zeenus

Arden University student,
BA (Hons) Business Management

When I started my Bachelor's in Business Management, I never expected my life to change overnight. I entered an international beauty pageant on a whim, not thinking I would win, but it propelled me into a world I hadn't imagined. That's when I knew I had to pursue further education.

In Nepal, mental health is still a huge stigma. People laugh if you mention things like social anxiety or depression because there is little awareness and limited access to mental health services. My goal is to bring awareness and support to my community, and that's why I'm studying at Arden University.

Kanishka

Arden University student,
MA Engineering Management

When I first thought about going back to university, I was honestly nervous. I wondered, 'Can I really manage this alongside my full-time job?' But Arden gave me the confidence to push through those doubts.

What really stood out for me was the flexibility. Online learning means I can fit my studies around my life — not the other way around. I can still excel at work, spend time with my family, and pursue a degree that's building my future. Arden's approach has helped me believe in myself again and realise that my dreams are worth the effort.

Gemma

Arden University alumni,
BSc (Hons) Psychology

Studying at Arden University has been transformative. I went from doubting whether I could even finish a module to now being on track for a first-class degree. Along the way, I've taken on volunteer roles and become the "mom" of my study groups, to whom students often come to me for advice. That's been a huge confidence boost.

It's also reminded me that I have valuable skills, and my brain is still sharp. It's definitely a balancing act, but Arden's flexibility has made it possible. Being able to study at my own pace and fit learning around family life has been essential.

The Arden Graduate Grove

In partnership with

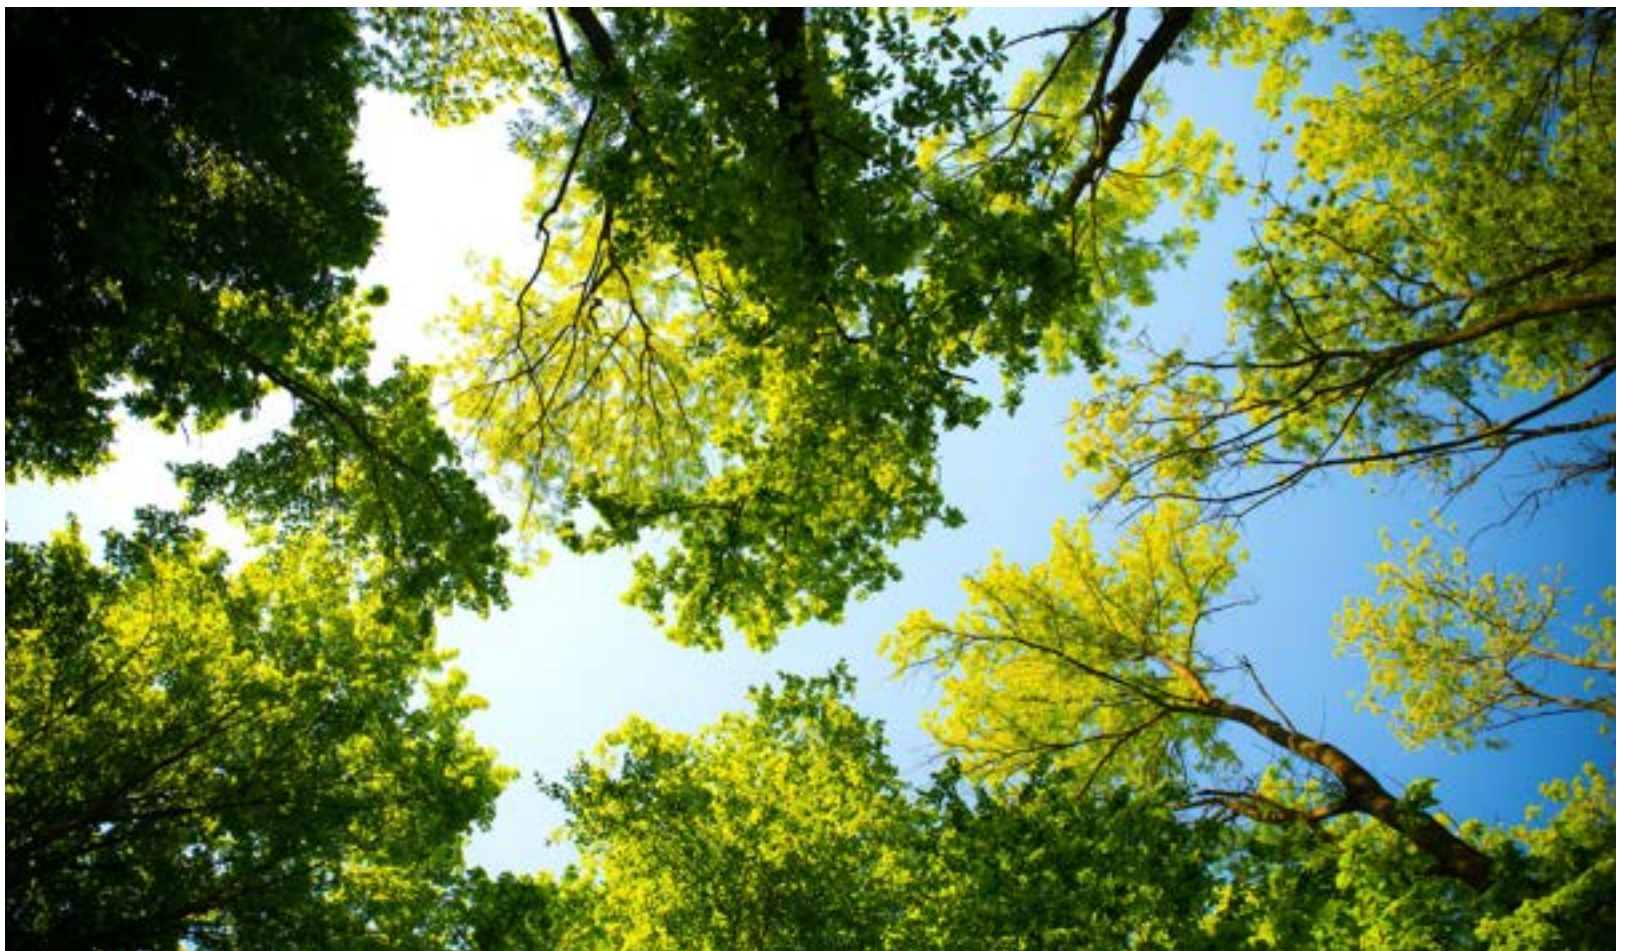

Arden University has committed to plant a tree for each of our graduates. In this endeavour we work closely with our chosen partner Ecologi, a passionate community of over 19,000 SMEs and 40,000 members that empowers businesses to accelerate global action on climate and nature.

Since launching the Graduate Grove in 2021, Arden University has planted thousands of trees on behalf of our graduates.

When will your tree be planted?

We aim to have each tree planted within a year of graduation.

We believe that education should be long-lasting, providing huge benefits for our students and their families long after they graduate. As a result, we hope that, just like the trees in our Graduate Grove, the knowledge and skills you have gained through your education with us continue to grow long after you have completed your studies.

You can learn more about Ecologi and their action on climate change by visiting ecologi.com

The history of the ceremonial mace

The tradition of the mace derives from medieval times in England when the mace was held by a bodyguard for dignitaries at ceremonial functions.

As an ancient symbol of authority, it reminds us that universities are custodians of both enduring traditions in learning and of the power they bestow upon those who come to learn.

The mace has become a symbol of authority and character of the institution and is carried at the head of the robed academic procession, followed by academic staff from the schools and faculties whose students are to be presented.

About the Arden University mace

Our beautiful mace was designed by Arden University Graphic Design student Jemma Lee Loppnow and crafted by the world-famous silversmiths Thomas Fattorini Ltd in Birmingham, England.

The creative and modern design represents a modern university and is symbolic of Arden University's proud history and values.

The symbolic Arden 'A' is held by supporting hands and the bird holding the scroll in its beak represents offering education to all. The globe at the bottom of the staff represents opportunities for a higher education around the world.

Please scan the QR code to watch an interview with Jemma and the making of the mace.

About today's mace bearers

Bolanle Balogun

Bola's career at Arden University began in March 2023 as a Business Systems Analyst, a role that has allowed her to bridge the gap between business operations and technology. She has been instrumental in analysing and optimizing business processes, ensuring that Arden leverages technology effectively to enhance efficiency, streamline workflows, and drive digital transformation.

In addition to her role as a Business Systems Analyst, she has also played a vital role in ISRG (Information Systems Review Group), an integral unit responsible for managing and advancing the university's digital infrastructure, ensuring that critical systems operate seamlessly, supporting faculty, students, and administrative functions. Alongside her professional commitments, she has successfully completed both an MBA and an MSc in Digital Transformation, equipping her with a comprehensive understanding of business strategy, emerging technologies, and the evolving landscape of digital innovation. These academic achievements have strengthened her ability to drive impactful technological advancements within the university.

Her journey has been fuelled by a deep passion for learning, resilience in overcoming challenges, and a commitment to pushing the boundaries of knowledge. Serving as the Mace Bearer is not just an honour but a testament to her dedication to academic excellence and institutional progress.

I am incredibly honoured and excited to serve as a Mace Bearer at this year's graduation ceremony! Carrying the symbol of Arden's authority and tradition is not just a privilege but a deep reminder of the legacy of knowledge, leadership, and excellence that we uphold. To the graduates, congratulations on this momentous achievement! Today marks the culmination of your dedication, resilience, and countless hours of hard work. As you step into the next chapter of your journey, may you continue to pursue excellence, embrace lifelong learning, and make an impact in the world. It's a proud day for all of us, and I am honoured to be part of this celebration!

About today's mace bearers

Catherine Hitch

Cat Hitch has been lecturing at Arden since 2024, in the School of Psychology. She has an MSc in Health Psychology, a PhD in Socio-Clinical Psychology, and a PGCert in Technology-Enhanced Learning.

For several years, Cat has been dedicated to supporting students from diverse backgrounds because her route through education was non-linear, she had unique barriers, and she does not identify with that 'straight grade A student'. Cat is about enabling people through their strengths and celebrating their achievements.

As well as receiving awards and nominations for her research, she has received two teaching-specific award nominations: the Tutor of the Year Award and the Instant Impact Award. Cat loves being at the coalface with the students because that is where the instant impact is observed.

Outside of Arden, Cat and her partner engage in a lot of global travel and like to attend live music events.

I am deeply honoured to carry the mace on your graduation day. Graduations are such a special event. You should be extremely proud of your achievements because this was certainly a test! Your education journey so far has demonstrated what you are capable of, so good luck for the next step. If you were one of my students during this last year, it was a privilege to be part of your journey.

Denisa Rus

I am the Assessment Production Team Leader at Arden University, having joined the institution in August 2023. I am passionate about supporting and coordinating our academic colleagues to develop and moderate assessment briefs across all modules offered at Arden. I view my role as vital in ensuring an excellent student experience—making sure that assessment briefs are available on the first day of teaching, as our students rightly expect.

When challenges arise, I strive to resolve them promptly and efficiently, aiming to prevent delays and avoid any student disappointment. I am deeply committed to enhancing the student journey and strongly believe that exceptional outcomes are only possible through seamless collaboration between academic teams and professional services staff.

I hold an undergraduate degree in Business Management and have maintained a strong focus on leadership and management since beginning my academic journey in 2016. That year also marked a personal milestone, as I settled in the UK and chose it as the place I proudly call home.

Outside of work, I cherish time with my husband and our four-year-old son, who brings endless joy to our lives. I also enjoy attending yoga sessions, which help me relax and recharge for the week ahead.

It is a tremendous honour to serve as a mace bearer at Arden University's Graduation Ceremony. Being part of this significant day—celebrating the dedication and accomplishments of our students—fills me with immense pride and joy.

To all graduates: congratulations on reaching this important milestone. Your perseverance, resilience, and hard work over the past few years are truly commendable and will undoubtedly serve you well in the future. As you embark on the next chapter of your journey, I wish you every success in your careers and beyond!
